He will at once make an aggressive canvass of the entire District. His effective powers as a popular speaker are well known and he will make things lively wherever he goes.

Apropos of the refusal of Massachusetts to give up Kimpton, the Baltimore Gazette remarks: The Governor of Massachusetts, replying, says in effect: "No, you are a Democratic Governor and the fugitive is a Republican who has been useful to 'the party.' His trial would bring a great scandal upon 'the party,' therefore I will not allow him to be delivered to you. I will make Massachusetts a sanctuary for indicted carpet-baggers."

Rosser drew a pistol and began shooting at Colder who was standing a little aloof. Obenchain and Painter also drew weapons and opened fire on Colder, who fell mortally wounded. If Citizen Butler gets two hundred thousand votes he will get almost sixteen thousand more votes than were cast in Massachusetts at the last election for Governor.

It is stated in the French papers that Mr. Edison is to have no reward whatever at the Paris Exhibition for his phonograph. The reasons alleged for this apparent denial of justice are somewhat ridiculous. The jury of the class of instruments of precision declared that the phonograph could not be considered as at all an instrument of precision, but merely a toy; consequently they sent it to the class of telegraphy to be rewarded. But the telegraphists replied that it was of no use whatever in telegraphy, and refused to examine it. The consequence is that the most wonderful invention, probably, in the Exhibition, will be passed by unmentioned and unrewarded.

The good man slammeth the gate and bangeth the front door and maketh a noise, for his heart is without guile and he feareth not the grievous words of his wife; but the naughty man shutteth the gate softly and stealeth up stairs in his stocking feet, and stumbleth over the rocking chair, and the last condition of that man is worse than the first.—St. Louis Journal.

The Salient Points of Colonel Polk's Speeches in the West.

From the Farmer and Mechanic.

Your correspondent having accompanied Col. Polk through his entire campaign of the West, and having necessarily furnished your readers with very imperfect and disconnected sketches, given at such moments as he was able to appropriate during his hurried trip and constant travelling, he deems the work and its prospective results of such importance as to warrant its presentation in better form. At all the eleven points Col. P. addressed good audiences,—composed chiefly of farmers, their wives and daughters who evinced great interest throughout. Although the speeches averaged over two hours in length, his hearers never seemed to weary and not only listened with patience and unabated interest but seemed to regret that they could not hear more.

At all points he sketched fully and faithfully, the origin, the establishment, and the purposes of the Department of Agriculture as prescribed by the law; on all the features in which the western section was especially interested, he was particular to dwell in detail.

Inspired by the wonderful capabilities with which every day's travel impressed him with renewed force, he spoke encouragingly, and hopefully of the results to be accomplished, provided the people would give the Department that moral support and enccouragement, so essential to its efficiency.

The cereals, fruits, grasses, water powers, timbers, and mineral wealth, of this section, would if properly utilized give it the strength of an empire within itself

At one point, in response to the question from the crowd, "what do you think of our country?" he responded, "I think that God in His munificent bounty, has done all for you that you could ask; I see that you have only to touch this generous soil for it to respond with a bountiful harvest; you have a climate unsurpassed on this continent, and here at an altitude of twenty-eight hundred and fifty feet above the sea level, I find grapes, pears, peaches, apples and all vegetables growing in the greatest profusion and perfection, while your hills and mountains are covered with rich and luxuriant grass, your soils are as fertile as the bottoms of the Red river, even to the tops of your mountans, whose slopes, and gorges and coves, are crowned with the most valuable of various timbers, and in whose bosom repose undisturbed, untold treasures of mineral wealth; your sparkling gushing springs supplying you with the purest water and your crystal rivers furnishing a water power sufficient to turn the combined spindles of the world.

Your merry songs of peace, chiming in with the familiar hum of the spinning wheel and the clack of the loom, which gives to you through the cheerful industry of your wives and daughters, the blue and brown jeans suits in which I see you clad—are you not happy, and should you not be grateful for such a home, in such a country?

But if these va rious gifts, were to be utilized, and this God favored section brought up to its full development, more than one-third of the year must be devoted to work. Wealth does not consist purely of dollars and cents. Surplus crops and a ready market for them are desirable, but your wealth can be as surely increased and happiness as truly subserved by improving the farm—by adding to the comforts and beauties of home.

He urged these points with great earnestness, and admonished the people that they should not be lulled into inactivity, by undue hopes of blessing which they had fondly pictured would be showered upon them, by the completion of the rail road. Rail roads like most enterprises of magnitude, have their inconveniences as well as their advantages. One singular fact which impressed him in all his travels was the great, scarcity of sheep and improved cattle. He believed that they might have their rail roads traversing every valley—the smoke of their furnaces, might wreathe every mountain top—their plains and coves might bloom in luxuriant crops—the music of spindles and mills might ring all along their streams, but their industries would not be complete until all over these hills and mountains, should be seen herds of innumerable sheep and cattle.

And in this connection, with his accustomed fidelity, he paid his usual compliments to the dog.

He adverted to the possible early introduction of emigrants and capitalists into this inviting field, with the advantages accruing from such an acquisition and was thorough and fearless in his exposition of the hindrauces and obstacles in the way; he believed it was only necessary to make the advantages and attractions of this section and our whole State known to secure population and capital. Not only is the world ignorant of these, but he believed that the census takers in 1870 would not have found three hundred and four thousand, self exiled native North Carolinians living in other States, had they known the wonderful capabilities of their own State. It was a deplorable reflection that intelligent farmers and their families living in Macon, Cherokee or Clay, knew more of the resources, habits and customs, of the people of Georgia and Tennessee, than they did of those of the counties of Onslow, Hertford or Granville. It was a sad truth that in our private and public libraries, and in our school rooms so little was to be learned of North Carolina. We must advertise to the world through statistics and descriptive histories, the facts in relation to our State, if we expect to procure emigrants, and we must educate our children to know and appreciate their home, if we would keep them here.

It is through these methods and agencies that the great Northwest has made such rapid progress. He stated that in the States of Kansas, Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska the sale of public lands during the year 1877 amounted to one million four hundred and sixty-six thousand three hundred and thirty-two dollars, and that during the present year up to the first day of June the sale in these States amounted to five millions, one hundred and ninety thousand eight hundred and sixty dollars. These are some of the fruits of judicious advertising; those States which are mere infants in the great sister-hood of States, are better known to the world, than good old North Carolina, one of the original thirteen. And now he showed the importance and utility of collecting and compiling, statistical and other facts, which he was earnestly endeavoring to do. The law very properly imposed upon him this duty, and he hoped to awaken such an interest among the people as to procure and present such an array as would by their value excite general surprise. Should his labors be blessed—should he by his humble efforts be instrumental in unfolding the hidden truths which would present his State in her true character to the world, and bind her more firmly in the affections and hearts of her children, he would ask for no shaft of marble to be erected to his memory, for a work so proud and glorious would of itself be more enduring than monuments of brass or bronze. Everywhere he appealed in the strongest terms to the industrial classes to cultivate a feeling of amity and fraternity, towards all other classes of our citizens, to cherish a higher self-esteem, to depend less on the brains of others, and more upon their own resources, to inculcate among their children higher aspirations, higher hopes, and more exalted ideas of true manhood and womanhood.

He warned parents against the evils which threaten the country, growing out of careless home discipline. The boys and girls of to-day are the future fathers and mothers of the country, and upon the strength and force of their moral character must the country prosper or decline. He begged them to make home attractive, if they would have its sacred influence to shield their children from the dangers and vices so constantly besetting their paths. Teach them to love their vocation, their home and their State. Give them home literature. Give them home newspapers—the cheapest auxiliary to a practical education now known in the world. Shield them as against a viper from the corrupting, ruinous, trashy, sensational literature of the day. He would as soon think of placing in the hands of his four-year-old child a pointed dagger for a plaything as to place before his family these fruitful agencies of ruin.

He described the Agricultural Museum and its designs, and the people every where manifested the greatest interest in it, and pledged their co-operation to have their counties well represented in it at an early day. He appealed in eloquent terms to their State pride, reminding them of our past glorious history, pointing them to its character for conservatism and obedience to law, and referring them for examples for all that was great, glorious and heroic, to the unsullied record of her noble and illustrious dead.

At all points Col. Polk was warmly and heartily received by the people, and they were lavish in their demonstrations of approval of his speeches, and appreciation of his work. No better evidence, perhaps, could be given of this than the fact that your correspondent procured over two hundred subscribers to the FARMER AND MECHANIC. They were anxious to avail themselves of every facility for keeping up with the work of the Department.

Of course I do not pretend to give the language of the distinguished speaker, nor all the ideas advanced by him, but simply some of the more salient points touched upon. His campaign in the West was brilliant, and will result in great good to North Carolina. It was no easy task to make an address attractive which necessarily embraces so many dry agricultural statistics, delivered to mixed audiences, but the conclusive proof of the Colonel's success was given in the hearty and earnest invitations for him to visit them again.

The International Silver Conference.

We doubt if any one expected that the international silver conference, which has lately closed its session in Paris, would do anything more than to agree to disagree. It is complimentary to the United States that so many other countries responded to the call of our government and sent delegates to the conference. But our commissioners were there handicapped. Our ratio of silver to gold is different from that abroad and while they are seeking, some to demonetize silver and others to limit the coinage of it, we are practically making silver our standard of value. Imperial Germany did not send a representative at all. England sent one, but only to explain that a single standard, and that of gold, was best, a double standard being objectionable as linking a steady metal with that of an unsteady one, and making two coins of unequal values interchangeable at par. M. Leon Say admitted that if a common ground of agreement could be found silver would acquire thereby a certain degree of steadiness, but that he could not find that ground of action. It was simply the restrictions put upon the coinage of silver in France that had kept silver coins there at par with gold, and he feared with the demonetization of silver in Germany, combined with the large annual product of the Nevada and Colorado mines, the price of silver could not keep up; that silver coins representing the same value could not be brought to par with gold, even temporarily, except by increasing their weight of pure metal. Gov. Fenton's plea was that, as the employment of the two precious metals as the money of the World had been recognized as wise by the experience of mankind, they ought not now to be disjoined; that by international co-operation the equilibrium, has, in the long run, been well kept, and he thought that the relative values of the two metals might become practically fixed and a staple if they were brought into that free use which comes from their acceptance on a common basis. The plea was not accepted, the delegates were not convinced, and and so the conference broke up, and Paris soothed the defeat of the American commissioners by extending to them an abundant hospitality.

Beecher Opinions on Grant, Butler and Hayes.

The Rev. Beecher, who has been lately lecturing in San Francisco to four thousand dollar houses, says he is "a Grant man, first, middle and last, and expects he will yet be shown to be one of the wisest, and, on the whole, most sensible Presidents we have ever had." As for Butler, he looks upon him as "big brained," but not the sort he would select for a saint. "When all there is of the earth, earthy, is winnowed out of him." Mr. Beecher says, "there may be something left in the other world." He thinks Mr. Hayes would be a model President in a time of comparative peace, but he is not for a time like this, when there are eddies, conflicts and tides.

GREENSBORO ITEMS.

Senator Merrimon's Speech and Other Matters.

Correspondence of the News.

GREESBORO, Sept. 4.

This is court week, his Honor Judge Kerr, presiding. Yesterday there was a very large crowd present and the court house well packed with people to hear Judge Merrimon, who occupied from to two three hours in a very clear, forcible and exhaustive speech on the issue of the day.

As night, the Old Tilden and Vance Club (that had never disbanded) were called together, and a large and enthusiastic crowd were present, showing much of the spirit and vim of the campaign of 1876. The club raised a committee who reported in favor of all the old officers, and also recommended that the name now be changed to the "Greensboro Democratic Greenback Club," both of which were passed unanimously. Stirring and telling speeches were made by Col. T. M. Holt, (who said he would raise a Gen. Scales club in his county,) Gen. J. M. Leach and others. The Greensboro club propose business. In 1876 this was a very large club and did very efficient service. We propose to do so again in favor of our Congressional standard bearer, Gen. A. M. Scales.

Urge upon the people in every county to be well organized to elect every Democrat to Congress that is in the field, in the old North State.

Crops in this county now look fine; corn and tobacco have revived since the rains, and vegetation is all agreen once more.

The yellow fever sufferers have not been forgotten here. Twenty dollars was raised in the Methodist, about twenty-one in the Episcopal and seventy-two in the Presbyterian Congregations. I see Gov. Vance is to lecture here on the 12th for the same purpose.

Diptheria has proven quite fatal with many children in the county.

The Presbyterian Church is undergoing thorough repairs. PLUS

SECOND CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

A Card from W. H. Kitchen, Esq.

SCOTLAND NECK, Sept 4.

To the voters of the Second Congressional District:—

At the earnest request and solicitation of my friends of both political parties, I declare myself a candidate to represent this district in the 46th Congress.

In doing this I am actuated by no unholy ambition, but having the good, the welfare the prosperity, of my state and country at heart and desiring to see the burden of Government rest upon all in proportion to their property. I adopt this course, which, if successful will attain other ends which I have always advocated. My platform, briefly expressed, is this:

1. The retiring of the circulation of the National Bank notes, and the substitution of greenbacks therefor.

2. The taxation of National Banks all other property.

3. The payment of the National bonds in greenbacks, so far as constitutional.

4. The repeal of the Resumption Act.

5. A modification of the Revenue Law so that it will affect all sections of the country alike—and only such revenue as is necessary to carry on the wheels of government.

6. Tax on all incomes over one thousand dollars.

7. Free Banking privileges.

I shall make a thorough and complete canvass of the entire District, and will in a short time give notice of my appointments, and I earnestly call upon every voter in the District, regardless of party, race, or color, to unite with me in this undertaking to insure the success of these principles which will redound to the prosperity of our common country. W. H. KITCHEN.

The Scourge—Northern Sympathy.

New York World.

We have not had the heart to make the plague with which the South is smitten a theme for speculation, and it was superfluous to dwell upon our sympathy for the sufferers or spur the willing charity of New York to contribute for their relief. The sad sight of the advance of the pestilence from city to city, preceded by terror, accompanied by pain and death and followed by desolation, is not without its consolations. The calamity has in the main been encountered with intelligence and borne with fortitude. There has been some selfishness displayed and some cowardice, but the whole attitude of society has been one of courage and self-sacrifice. As soon as men became aware of the nature of the danger that was at hand the heroes and martyrs of the war for the preservation of life appeared. As soon as the North saw that the South needed help in her affliction supplies of every description were poured out and volunteers came forward as cheerfully for a campaign against disease among fever-stricken patients as they did years ago for a campaign in the service of death and destruction. Much is often said in abuse of this city, but none that were in want or sorrow ever failed to learn how warm is the heart and how lavish the hand of the metropolis. However much destruction the fever may work, one thing is sure—that few lives shall be lost that care, generosity and charity can save. The very persistence of the plague, which nobody expected to last so long, has not brought dismay at the North, but roused a spirit of determination to baffle the fever's further progress, cost what it may. Out of the bitter experiences of the summer some remedy should be gathered. After this deadly but noiseless war is over it will be well to honor in some appropriate manner the memory of the soldiers in that army "whose mission is to save."

What a Fly Did.

Carthage (Ill.) Gazette.

Mr. James Howard, of Walker, married an interesting young lady named Symonds about a year ago, and they have lived cosily and happily together ever since. But the other morning, at breakfast, an inquisitive and hungry fly dropped down from his perch on the ceiling, and, stretching his legs, began skirmishing around for his breakfast. He crawled slowly around Mr. Howard's coffee cup once or twice, sniffing the delicious aroma, and wondering how he could manage to get a drink, when his foot slipped, he lost his grip, and in a moment more was floundering around in the liquid. His struggles attracted the attention of James, and he pulled him out and playfully tossed him across the table. The unfortunate fly alighted in a wet and bedraggled condition on Mrs. H.'s plate. She indignantly grabbed him and flung him back into her husband's plate. James gazed steadily at her a moment, and seeing blood in her eye, deliberately picked up the fly, and, with a hand trembling with suppressed rage, threw it back on her plate. Then began a regular game of shuttlecock between the two, and that fly flew back and forth until he was completely worn out. Then the young wife, bursting into tears, seized her bonnet and rushed from the house to the residence of her parents, vowing she would never come back, and James went out to the barn, swearing to himself. In an hour or so the father of the much-abused wife came over with a team and removed all her baggage, and now they "meet as friends no more." They have separated for good, and two lives are rendered miserable by the single misstep of a fly. On such small things do our destinies depend.

WESTERN CAROLINA

Henderson County—The Spartanburg & Asheville Railroad.

Special Correspondence of the News.

HENDERSONVILLE, Sept. 2.

Henderson county was formed in 1838 from Buncombe, having an area of six hundred square miles, and a population consisting of eight thousand inhabitants. It was named in honor of the late Leonard Henderson, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

The scenery in this county and Transylvania is unsurpassed by any on the American continent. Many of the stereoscopic views of the beautiful French Broad river, so extensively circulated and universally admired, were taken by the artist from localities in this county.

FLAT ROCK

has long been a favorite summer resort for the elite of South Carolina. Here in a space of ten miles square, the Lowndes, Pinckneys, Rhetts, Barnwells, Rutledges, Seabrooks, Middletons, Trenholms, Draytons, and the Hon. C. G. Menninger, Treasurer of the late Confederate States, have built summer residences, which they have beautified and adorned with taste unsurpassed, making this Flat Rock community by far the prettiest locality in the State. Fish ponds abounding in fish, large flower gardens containing rare flowers, gravelled walks with turf borders, long avenues of evergreens approaching the houses—all that wealth and art could do to improve on the natural beauties of the place, have been done, and Flat Rock presents to the view one of the most pleasing prospects that the eye ever beheld. Here also is kept a first-class hotel, H. T. Farmer, proprietor.

THE SPARTANBURG AND ASHEVILLEE RAILROAD

is completed to Green river four miles distant from Flat Rock, and ten from Hendersonville. The road crosses the Ridge at Paces Gap, with a seven foot cut. The scenery on the road is magnificent, some of the cuts are one hundred feet in depth through solid rock, the grade is very heavy, in some places two hundred and thirty-four feet to the mile.

The surface of the country is mountainous, the soil fertile, the climate unsurpassed. The beautiful streams afford unlimited water power, and are filled with fish. The county posseses all the attractions to the capitalists seeking permanent investment, or the seekers of pleasure during the Summer, that the heart could wish, and justly ranks among the best counties in the State having but one spot on her fair escutcheon, viz: being governed by the Republican party, but by such a small majority, that it could easily be carried by the Democrats, by proper organization and a little hard work.

HENDERSONVILLE,

the county seat is a pretty, thriving town of six hundred inhabitants, having three capital hotels and a Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Episcopal Church, with a fine academy, J. S. Woodburn, graduate of the University, Principal, a telegraph office, and two weekly newspapers.

The Baptist Female College, a large three story building, built out of granite, is fast reaching completion. The building will accommodate two hundred pupils, and was commenced before the war, operations were suspended until July last, when work was recommenced. It will be finished next spring at a cost of ten thousand dollars.

COL. T. W. TAYLOR,

Senator elect of the 41st district, lives in Hendersonville. He is a successful farmer and trader, is fifty years old, has been in public life for thirty years, for sixteen years he was sheriff of the county, and in 1873 was elected to the Senate, and made an efficient Senator. He has always given satisfaction to his constituents as their public servant, and with his large experience, he will make a useful member of the Senate. He married Mrs. Huggins, an estimable lady, from Raleigh, who cherishes the warmest affection for the City of Oaks and her citizens.

An Incident of the Plague.

New Orleans Democrat.

At the corner of St. Joseph and Baronne the reporter entered a room on the ground floor of a two-story brick building. On a crib lay a boy apparently about thirteen years of age, whose tossings and twitchings were watched over by a fond mother. When the reporter entered, the wet eyes of the mother told the tale. Mistaking the identity of the reporter for a doctor, she, with no little emotion, said: "Oh! doctor, Jimmy is dying."

Entering the room, the poor little sufferer was found to be breathing stertorously, his eyes fixed, and evidently with but a short time to live.

"Doctor, do tell me," said the mother, "how long can he live? He was a good boy, and would not associate with bad boys. He was one of the best boys in the world."

The sun slanted down in the western sky, the shadows of the houses and fences lengthened out, the quiet of our short twilight stole over the streets, and as mother and cousin watched over the thin form of their little one, without a warning, its spirit, in quietude and peace, left its habitation, and, with those gone before, entered into the great unknown world.

THE LAND OF THE SKIES.

Observations and Impressions of the West and Its People.

Special Correspondence of the News.

HENDERSONVILLE, September 2.

I should be justly chargeable with presumption, were I even to attempt a description of this attractive section, especially when I remember that the Vances, a Swain, a Clingman and the versatile pen of Miss Fisher, have all essayed to sketch its loveliness and beauty. The picturesque landscape, the "magnificent distances mountains on mountains stretching away as far as the eye can reach and swelling range above range, like the blue billows of the ocean; the crystal rills, rivulets and rivers, the hospitable, generous hearted people all, all are here, and to be truly appreciated in all their measures and fullness must be seen. No pen, however brilliant and gifted can even give a just conception of the physical beauty and grandeur of this section, and I deem myself fortunate to have the opportunity for seeing it that is afforded by accompanying Col. Polk on his campaign. At Swannanoa Gap, Mr. S. G. Worth, who has charge of the hatchery, showed us his arrangements, and also twenty-two hundred trout in the pond, from which he is to procure spawn for winter operations. At Asheville we are joined by that genial, clever Knight of the quill, R. M. Furman, and taking the Great Western Turnpike We strike out for Cherokee. Fruit trees are laden with their luscious treasures, fields smile in luxuriant crops of corn, buckwheat, clover etc., notwithstanding the almost universal assurance which very one gives you, that "this has been the dryest season we have had in twenty years." The tables of these farmers would indicate anything but drought, and it was not altogether a fancy sketch of Col. Polk when he told the people at Hayesville, in his speech, that in the absence of facilities for transporting their suplus crops they had (as appeared to him) adopted the novel method of converting every eastern man, whom they caught west of the Ridge into a produce wagon, for taking it on.

They live as easy as any people, perhaps, in the world. Their soils are wonderfully fertile. Their range for stock unexcelled, and being so remote from Railroads, as to render surplus crops of little value, their chief concern seems to be to have their barns, corn cribs and meat and milk houses well filled. The ancient clack of the loom and the old familiar hum of the spinning wheel are as familiar sounds as the eternal murmurings of the waters that never die out on the ear. But little is done in introducing improved bloods of stock, and this important fact is noted by our Commissioner who has no failed to comment upon it in all his speeches, especially, that branch of this industry which, by the law, is entrusted to his Department. He talks sheep and dogs as strongly here as he does in the East, and his views are as heartily endorsed.

The transition from a lounge at night with no cover and doors and windows all open, to a feather bed with sheet and two blankets or quilts, is as strange as it is pleasant and refreshing. The cozy little fire always welcomes the merry circle after supper.

Of the addresses of Col. Polk, which have been received with great favor by the people—of the pleasant incidents by the way, of peculiar charms and characteristics of certain localities—of the aims, hopes, aspirations and necessities of this people, I may hereafter speak more particularly, but for want of time I must conclude this hurried letter by saying to our people east of the Ridge that if you want a pure life-giving, inspiriting atmosphere and climate; if you want as fine waters as can be found anywhere in the world; if you want scenery, such as can be surpassed nowhere for varied beauty; if you want fruits and vegetables; if you want to be among as hospitable people as live, come to the mountains of Western North Carolina.

NOTES.

No one has been able to explain why it is that a man feels he is more likely to get up in time in the morning by keeping his watch or clock half an hour fast.

William Henry Ogden, of Tennessee, and Miss Sallie Self, of Georgia, are married. This is a clear case, as the old darkey said, "whar a man marries his own dear self."

A North Carolina editor expresses the opinion that "the man who will read a newspaper three or four years without paying for it will pasture a goat on the grave of his grand father."

"I am persuaded," said Sterne, "that every time a man smiles it adds something to his fragment of life"—another brick to his tenement of clay.

—W. W. Corcoran of Washington has given another $50,000 to Virginia University to endow a Natural History chair. Who will give one tenth that sum to our State University?

A restaurant patron was talking somewhat roughly to a waiter, when the proprietor, stepping up, remarked: "Don't talk to him that way. He used to be Governor of Florida, and such treatment naturally hurts his feelings."

An Iron Mountain Spring hotel proprietor gives notice that "families must furnish their own towels." He is evidently weary of hearing complaints against the public towel on the wet sink roller.

"There are doubtless vocations in which he coud be trusted," was the reply. "There's real estate, for example; if that were put in his care I think the owner would find his property where he left it. I shouldn't care to speak as to any other kind of property."

Employ a regular Gymnast and make the boys exercise. If the Faculty of Wake Forest College were to say to the students, "Young men, we advise you to recite lessons; but we'll leave it with you, you can recite if you please, and when you please, or not at all if you please." I guarantee that there would be but little regular reciting. Sometimes the boys would recite, and then again they would'nt. Feeling and convenience and the weather would disarrange things mightily. They know better than that. They say no such things to the students; but they do in action say a very unwise thing to them when they leave them to take exercise when they please, or not at all if they like. Let's have the Gymnasium.

The Radical Campaign Issue—The "Solid South."

We use the words "the issue" advisedly, because if there is a single issue upon which the Republican party is united, it is the one which is formulated by the phrase of "the solid South. And when we speak of the Republican party, we allude to the Northern wing of it, because the Radical party of the South has no distinctive issue of its own. It is a mere tail to the Northern kite, following where it flies and lighting where it alights. It is, however, animated and pervaded by one great hope and purpose, and its members look to the nomination of GRANT for the Presidency in 1880, and to the restoration of "the strong government" under whose sheltering ægis, in former years, they "played havoc" with the rights of the citizen and "let slip the dogs" of license, plunder, lawlessness and spoliation. Already, two of the leading Radical papers of the State have doffed the cap to imperial Cæsar and hoisted the name of Grant to the masthead for the next Presidency.

But at the North sectional prejudices and surviving war feelings constitute the political resources upon which the Republican party mainly relies for retaining the power which it has abused and recovering the ground which its own faults and crimes have lost it. It is the "solid South issue" which it expects is to restore to them the control of the next House of Representatives; and Senator Conkling, of New York, who has been passive and silent with respect to political matters for more than a year past, has just sounded the keynote of war in that direction. As for ourselves, we propose to waste no words in either repelling or explaining the insinuations involved, further than to ask: Against whom or what is the South "solid?" Certainly not against the government, or against the North, as such. That the Southern States are, to a great extent, we are glad to say, solid against the Radical party, is the latter's own doing. It deliberately made the sectional division the basis of its power at the North, while, at the same time, it has sought to make, and has virtually succeeded in making, the color line its source of strength at the South. That the gage has been accepted is the fault of those who threw down the gauntlet. That the white men of the South,—the true white men, worthy of the name, who were not purchasable by the power of the purse or the paraphernalia and perquisites of place,—have risen en masse against the indignities, the robberies and the oppressions of which they were made the victims by Radical hate and dishonesty, and have resented the foul and fell policy which would have placed them beneath the feet of ignorant and servile subjection, is the proudest tribute at once to their manhood and their honor.

This din and clamor about the solid South are just now used to fill the public mind with certain apprehensions, varying according to the localities in which they are raised. In the North and West, alike, it is alleged that, in the event of Democratic ascendancy in the government, a solid South means the payment of a fabulous amount of "rebel" claims and the consequent reward of "treason," while, in the North and East, it is proclaimed that such an ascendancy means such legislation on the currency as will be fatal to the interests of the oligarchs, monopolists and money lords. The latter, of course, is not the shape in which the "danger" is presented, but that is the gist and substance of the matter, after all.

As to this question of Southern claims, we have heretofore shown it to be a fact, while the Democrats, during their three years possession of the House of Representatives, have not paid $5,000,000 of them, loyal or "disloyal," that, on the contrary, during ten years of uninterrupted Radical rule, more than $100,000,000 of fraudulent so-called "loyal" claims were paid in order to build up the Republican party in the South. On this whole subject, however, we have only this to say, that when an honest and equitable claim against the government is presented, it should, after investigation, be paid, and not otherwise; and that when such a claim is presented from a Southern State, it is entitled to just the same consideration as a similar claim from Massachusetts or anywhere else.

It speaks everything for the patriotism, honesty and sympathy with the masses of the Democratic party, that a solid South is such a bugbear to the monopolists, bond-holders and controllers of corporate wealth. The South is solid,—or, rather, the controlling Democratic party of the South is solid, in its determination, with the assistance of patriotic men everywhere, who want sound popular government regulated by law for the good of the whole country, to stop the oppressions of the money power and its encroachments upon the liberties and interests of the struggling people.

Behind this cry of the "solid South" a call for Grant and a strong government, on behalf of the money power, comes up to meet the corresponding demand on the part of the negroes and office-holders and office-seekers of the South. So that an unsolid South is confronted with these dangers:

1. The restoration of the Grant military despotism, beneath which our liberties were crushed for eight long and terrible years; and

2. The impossibility of perfecting those financial reforms which the Democracy of the country have already inaugurated, and of accomplishing those others, embodied in their National, State or local platforms, which they believe essential to the welfare of the Republic and the prosperity of the masses of the people.

Brethren, let us remain "solid!" The times admit of no division, no dissensions, no clashing rivalries, no sordid ambitions at the expense of party unity and success. At such a crisis, with such momentous considerations involved, he is no true man, he is no friend of the people or lover of the country, whatever his blatant and demagogical professions, who would break the integrity and "solidity" of the South or of the Democratic party!

Educating the People.

On Monday last, the second day of September, the doors of one hundred and fourteen schools, in the city of New York, opened to receive over one hundred thousand pupils. Besides the free educational institutions there are, of course, very many private schools, embracing a large number of students. The majority of the attendants in the public schools are chiefly from the poorer classes, but a considerable number of them belong to the richer classes, who seek to avail themselves of the opportunities for obtaining the really superior education which is now offered in those institutions.

It will be observed that nearly one-tenth of the population of the city of New York attends school, estimating its inhabitants at 1,000,000, which is about the number. The various schools, public and private, for black and white, in our own little city of Raleigh, generally opened on Mouday last, also. From such estimates and figures as we have been able to reach, we think that we are safe in saying that fully one-tenth (the same ratio as in New York) of our white population is at school. The ratio is not as large with the colored population, but it is still respectable and encouraging

As far back as we have any knowledge, says the New York World, the opinion has prevailed that the interest of every community is promoted by the diffusion of education among the people. This principle was well recognized by the ancients. Sparta believed that her safety depended upon educating every child in the State, while Athens offered to all her free citizens schools for all classes; but in modern times it is reserved for America to give a most extensive practical effect to this system by providing free schools, in which the children of the rich and the poor may meet together and share alike in the blessings and advantages of education. Talleyrand said once that "instruction seems to be a debt which society owes to all, and which it must pay without the slightest deduction." His remarks found many an exponent afterward, among the ablest and most liberal thinkers. It has been often stated, that Great Britain pays five times as much for pauperism and crime as for education, while Switzerland pays seven times as much for education as for pauperism and crime, which shows that wherever free education prevails there is found more liberty and more social and political stability.

Democratic Economy.

In order, if possible, to break the force of the Democratic record of retrenchment of government expenditures, the Republican chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, Mr. Windom, of Minnesota, was recently required to furnish a campaign document belittling Democratic economy. His misrepresentations have provoked a reply from Mr. Blackburn, of Kentucky, which most effectually and thoroughly disposes of his perverted exhibit. He shows that the rate at which the ordinary expenses of the government,—excluding expenses on account of the public debt and pensions,—has increased, is, as we have heretofore demonstrated, equally amazing and alarming. He proves that the sums expended for these purposes during the ten years beginning with the fiscal year, which ended June 30, 1867, considerably exceeded the same expenditures during the seventy-three years preceding the outbreak of the civil war. He further shows that, during the last five years of Republican control in the House, there was an actual increase of expenditures. They were greater by over thirteen millions in 1876 than in 1871. Earnest and successful efforts in the direction of economy did not commence until the Democrats obtained a majority in the House of Representatives. The savings effected by the last and the present House amount to eighty-eight millions. Some fifty millions more might have been saved but for the resistance offered by a Republican Senate and administration.

There can be no possible doubt that the good work begun by the House of the Forty-Fourth Congress, and continued by the present House, will be carried still farther by the Forty-Sixth Congress, should that body contain—as we are confident it will—a Democratic majority in both of its branches.

A New York Radical journal says. "The man who stands in the way of harmony in the Republican party, no matter how great his services may have been in the past, is an enemy of the party, and ought to be rebuked in the most public and positive way." Then it sums up thus:

"These remarks may be applied with equal force to all similar cases, whether in this State or elsewhere. No candidate has a right to throw his district into the hands of the Democrats or to allow his friends to do so, whether he resides in New York or Pennsylvania, Vermont or North Carolina, Indiana or Tennessee. The only way in which the Republicans can win this year, is by preserving harmony along the whole line; the surest road to defeat is through dissension over the nominations and a division of the vote between rival Republican candidates."

We quote the above because it is a good argument already made for the Democrats, if they will only apply it to themselves by transposing the words Democrats and Republicans.

Emerson Etheridge was recently nominated for Governor by the Radical State Convention of Tennessee. Although he has declined the nomination, the fact of its having been tendered him involves suspicion, of his new affiliations. It is only a few years since that he declared: "May the grass wither under my feet, the woods deny me shelter, the earth a grave and Heaven a God, if I vote the Republican ticket!" Well, it was only a few years ago, also, that Josiah Turner, who is now hankering for Radical endorsement, said: "We might as well expect crime to be rewarded in another world, as to suppose that such a set of creatures can remain in power!"

VEGETINE.

FOR Dropsy.
I never shall
FORGET THE FIRST DOSE.
PROVIDENCE.

MR. H R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir,—I have been a great sufferer from dropsy. I was confined to my house more than a year. Six months of the time I was entirely helpless. I was obliged to have two men help me in and out of bed. I was swollen 19 inches larger than my natural size around my waist. I suffered all a man could and live. I tried all remedies for Dropsy: I had three different doctors. My friends all expected I would die; many nights I was expected to die before morning. At last Vegetine was sent me by a friend. I never shall forget the first dose. I could realize its good effects from day to day: I was getting better. After I had taken some 5 or 6 bottles I could sleep quite well nights. I began to gain now quite fast. After taking some 10 bottles, I could walk from one part of my room to the other. My appetite was good: the dropsy had at this time disappeared. I kept taking the Vegetine until I regained my usual health. I heard of a great many cures by using Vegetine after I got out and was able to attend to my work. I am a carpenter and builder. I will also say it has cured an aunt of my wife's of Neuralgia, who had suffered for more than 20 years. She says she has not had any neuralgia for eight months. I have given it to one of my children for Canker Humor. I have no doubt in my mind it will cure any humor; it is a great cleanser of the blood; it is safe to give a child. I will recommend it to the world. My father is 80 years old, and he says there is nothing like it to give strength and life to an aged person. I cannot be too thankful for the use of it. I am,
Very grateful yours,
JOHN S. NOTTAGE.

ALL DISEASES OF THE BLOOD.—If Vegetine will relieve pain; cleanse, purify, and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies and suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood: and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention.

Vegetine.

I owe my Health
TO YOUR VALUABLE.
VEGETINE.
NEWPORT, KY., Apr. 29, 1877.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir,—Having suffered from a breaking out of Cankerous Sores for more than five years, caused by an accident of a fractured bone, which fracture ran into a running sore, and have used everything I could think of and nothing helped me, until I had taken six bottles of your valuable medicine which Mr. Miller the apothecary recommended very highly. The sixth bottle cured me, and all I can say, is that I owe my health to your valuable Vegetine.
Your most obedient servant,
ALBERT VON ROEDER.

"It is unnecessary for me to enumerate the diseases for which the Vegetine should be used, I known of no disease which will not admit of its use, with good results. Almost innumerable complaints are caused by poisonous secretions in the blood, which can be entirely expelled from the system by the use of the Vegetine. When the blood is perfectly cleansed, the disease rapidly yields all pains cease; healthy action is promptly restored, and the patient is cured.

HOME REMEDY.
THE MOST WONDERFUL DISCOVERY OF THE AGE!
A CERTAIN AND SPEEDY CURE FOR SCROFULA.

FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS!

The following is from the Raleigh News, and was a voluntary insertion and not an advertisement:

"Years ago an old Indian left a receipt for curing Scrofula with Mrs. Person's father. Mrs. Person lives at Franklinton, or in that section. A child was born to Mrs. Person, and it had the scrofula. The doctors gave it up to die. She thought of that receipt, that was now old and musty, and hid away in an upstairs drawer. She concluded if the child was bound to die, it wouldn't hurt to follow that receipt. She went out and gathered the herb, got the whisky, and did as directed to the child. Her child now lives well and hearty. More than this: Only a few months since a South Carolinian, whose name has slipped us, was suffering with some scrofulous affection on the heel. He had been to the Hot Springs in Arkansas, and from there he went to Kittrell Springs. Nothing did him any good. At Kittrell's Dr. —— wrote to Mrs. Person if she cured that South Carolinian her receipt was worth money. And the South Carolinian sent her word if she cured him he would give her five hundred dollars. She sent him directions what to do, and added if they cured him he could send her twenty-five dollars; she wouldn't ask five hundred. The South Carolinian went home, and shortly afterward sent Mrs. Person a check for twenty-five dollars, and wrote the most grateful letter he knew how. Bless those old Indians! We would like to have one for a near neighbor."

LOUISBURG, N. C., May 22, 1878.

MRS. JOE PERSON:

The medicine I purchased of you last winter proved of lasting benefit to my son. He was troubled with twenty-seven running sores, some of them quite large, and of a Scrofulous nature. In less than three weeks after commencing the use of your Remedy he was perfectly restored, and is to-day quite well and healthy. AS A TONIC AND BLOOD PURIFIER IT HAS NO EQUAL. Hoping that you may be spared for many years of usefulness, I remain,
Very Respectfully,
T. J. STOKES.

MACHINERY.
HEGE'S IMPROVED CIRCULAR SAW MILL.
CIRCULAR SAW MILL. LEVER FEED CUTTER.

Hege's Improved Circular Saw Mill, is no new and untried saw mill, but is one that is well and favorably known in many sections, and wherever it is introduced it is fast superceding all others. It is simple in construction, yet reliable in operation, and is sold for less than any similar first class saw mill. Send for descriptive circular

Lever Feed Cutter,
Is something entirely new and novel in the feed cutter line. With this cutter the feed cut off diagonally, instead of square across, as is the case with all other cutters, at the same time our cutter has a draw cut, acting exactly on the same principle that a knife is used in cutting off a stick, consequently with our Diagonal Feed Cutter we can cut more feed with less labor in a given time than any other cutter costing twice as much.
Price reduced to $8.00. Send for circular. Liberal discount to agents. No goods consigned. Manufactured by the Salem Agricultural Works, Salem, N. C.

No serious cases engrossed the attention of the Mayor yesterday. Three trifling drunks were stowed in the guard house for 12 hours.

Almost a Fire.

The alarm of fire was given yesterday, but did not become general, from the residence of Mr. Prempert, corner Martin and Dawson streets. No material damage was done, the fire being soon subdued.

County Commissioners.

The session of this Board was continued yesterday, but none of the transactions were noteworthy, routine business, merely, being looked after.

For the Penitentiary.

H. K. Trogdon, deptuy sheriff of Randolph county, brought down yesterday two prisoners, both white, convicted of larceny, and sentenced to imprisonment for one year. Their names were Martha Tysinger and Ellen Tysinger.

Badly Burned.

A colored woman by the name of Alston, who lives on the railroad, near Gen. Cox's was badly burned about the hands and arms yesterday. While cooking, her dress caught on fire, and in putting out the flames she received the injuries. These are painful; but not serious.

Affray in a Saloon.

Yesterday an affray occured in Sorrell's saloon on Wilmington street, between Ed. Eatman, white, and Ned Bryant, a negro shoemaker. The latter got the worst of the affair, receiving a severe blow across the face with a stick. The parties were both arrested promptly.

Hinsdale and John Davereux, Jr., will aid the Solicitor in the prosecution. Smith is held in jail here until the case comes up.

The Next State Fair.

Donations to the North Carolina Agricultural Society, for the premium list of the 18th annual State fair, at Raleigh, N. C., October 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, next.

(Acknowledged by C. B. Denson, Secretary, in behalf of the Executive Committee.)

Ten annual subscriptions to the Oxford Torch Light, $15.00, given by W. A. Davis, Editor and Publisher. We tender many thanks to our friend of Oxford, where reputation for enterprise and liberality is so well established. We hope to see every copy awarded where the benefit will be great, both to the Fair and the Torch Light. We shall be glad to hear again from our friends of the newspaper estate in North Carolina.

Ten photographs, enlarged to life size, from any picture in the possession of the successful exhibitor, $50.00, given by Ten Eyck & Co., Photographic Artists, Auburn, N. Y. Messrs. Ten Eyck had some of their very life-like and elegantly executed portraits on exhibition at the last Fair. We are gratified to learn that the result of that exhibit has been the increase of their business throughout the State. They have given the best proof of appreciation by presenting another very handsome contribution to the Fair, as stated above.

Six Pearl Shirts, $6.00, given by L. S. Steinberger, Philadelphia, Pa. L. Rosenthal, Esq., of this city is agent for the same. Mr. Steinberger is successor to the house of the same name, which exhibited and donated fine shirts to the Fair in 1877.

One sett oil tempered Elliptic Springs, one selection Swedish fire steel, and rerolled Norway iron, $25.00, given by William and Harvey Rowland, Frankford P. O. Philadelphia. No firm in the Union is better known to the carriage makers of the country, and their name is a synonym for good work.

N. S. Harp, Esq., our esteemed coach maker of this city, states that he has never known a failure with the springs of the Messrs. Rowland. We are also glad to acknowledge the reception of valuable aid from Mr. Harp.

The Grand Dime Party.

Up to last evening between four and five hundred dollars in money had been collected in the city by the members of the Executive Committee of the Ladies' Relief Association. Besides, very large donations of edibles continue to be made.

The committee will meet to-day, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the Treasurer's office, at the Capitol, to make complete all arrangements for the grand Dime Party to-night.

The Capitol will be brilliantly lighted the halls of the legislative houses will be thrown open in the evening. Never will the old building look gayer than this evening, and never will it contain happier hearts than those which will then beat in tender response to the touching appeal for help which goes up from the afflicted ones of the South. Every convenience that can be provided will be ready. The servants of the various departments at the Capitol will be ready to assist in all possible ways. In the broad call bails of the first floor will be spread the tables, loaded with every delicacy of the season. The four gates of the enclosure will each be guarded by a police officer, specially detailed for that purpose, who will collect the sum of ten cents from each one who passes into the enclosure. Within the grounds the scene will be lovely. The trees will bear reflector lamps, which will light up the wind ng walks and dewy grass plats. No better place for such an entertainment could possibly have been chosen. Never has so much euthusiasm been shown here as in this noble work. The ladies are determined to make it a perfect success. All the town will be there, and an evening whose delights will not soon be forgotton, may be anticipated. Let no one fail to go. Those who attend the play at Tucker's Hall, will find the Dime Party in full play. for it will not terminate until past midnight.

The Next State Fair--The Premium List.

The Premium List for the Fair here, Oct. 14——19 next has made its appearance. The address to the farmers says:

"It is with profound satisfaction that we are able to state that the Fair of 1877 was the most extensive and successful ever held in the State hitherto, and it is believed that the benefits flowing therefrom will be lasting in their influence. The obstacles to the full and comple development of the wise designs of the founders of this Institution are gradually being overcome, and it is our hope and belief that each year the Annual Fair will present evidence of the closer and more effectual co-operation of all industrial interests in our midst, for their mutual welfare.

The Premium List which the committee feel gratified to offer, has been carefully arranged, in the interest of all the classes who may justly claim the care and attention of the Society. The original objects of the Fair have been strictly kept in view, the advancement of agriculture by the introduction of new and valuable implements, live stock, tools, farm and garden seeds, &c., and the distribution of novel, interesting and serviceable appliances and products in the household and mechanic arts. Exhibitors may rest assured that the Lists, Primary and Supplementary, will offer the most liberal collection of premiums ever known in the history of our Society, and which we believe will bear comparison with that of any State in the Union.

The Annual Encampment of the North Carolina State Guard will take place at the Fair, Brig. General Johnstone Jones commanding. Brig. Generals Manly and Taylor with full mounted staff will be present. The Governor of the State with distinguished invited guests will review the assemble l equipped military strength of the Commonwealth, and it is believed that the largest and most brilliant display of troops ever made in a Southern State in time of peace will honor the 18th Annual Fair of the North Carolina Agricultural Society."

Gov. Vance to Speak.

The Greensboro Patriot says: On Thursday evening, the 12th inst., Governor Vance will deliver his great lecture on "The Scattered Nation" in this city by invitation of the Mayor and Commissioners, in behalf of the yellow fever sufferers of the South.

This is a cause which appeals to humanity, and aside from the reputation of the speaker, and the good merits of the lecture itself, should bring forth such an audience as has never before greeted any speaker in our history.

The Engine Struck Man.

Singular are the ways of the victims of horrible accidents. The result of the collision between a white man and a freight engine, on the R. & A. Railway, was noticed a day or so since. No one expected the man would survive. But he, too, like others in like cases, is going to disappoint the readers of the article by getting well. His name is Faikner; he lives near Cary, and now they say he will in all probability, recover. Strange are the ways of the fatally injured. They can't be depended upon.

The Need of Laborers.

Farmers, with one accord, unite in saying that never were laborers so scarce and hard to find as now. The cotton picking season is opening, and they are sadly needed, but can't be had for any consideration. Those in need of laborers come in town to seek them, but the stalwart negroes who ceaselessly loaf around the court house and market refuse to accept work. They can on no account be induced to go out of the sound of the market house bell. Yet, if we ask these idlers why they are not at work, they say they can't get it. The utter falsity of this statement is apparent.

If the city could by some happy chance be cleared of these drawbacks to civilization, how much better would be the condition, how much greater the peace of mind of the good citizens. The average negro is never more thoroughly in his element than when at work in the fields. But those here fancy themselves politicians in embryo, whose dignity must not be sullied by contact with rude labor. It is truly a pity that the vagrant law cannot be rigorously enforced, and these idle knaves be put to useful work.

Complimentary German.

Several young gentlemen gave an unusually delightful German last evening in the Bagley Hall, complimentary to Miss Luola Murchison, of New York, who is the guest of P. M. Hale, Esq. Miss Murchison, the fair recipient of the compliment, was elegantly attired in an embroidered buff bunting dress. The occasion was also graced by the presence of another fair one, Miss Mattie Bailey, of Tallahassee, Florida. Among the city belles present, and who never appeared to more advantage, were Misses Bettie Haywood, who led the German, Lavine Haywood, Carrie Winder, Ellen Hale, Mal. Haywood, Annie Perkins, Delia Bryan, Bessie Batchelor, Mattie Fowle, Olivia Cowper.

Among the lookers-on were observed Mrs. J. B. Batchelor, Mrs. Wm. Boylan, Miss Adelaide Boylan, Mrs. A. C. Sanders, Mrs. E. G. Haywood.

The costumes of the ladies were elegant, and most becomingly worn, while the young gentlemen appeared in all the panoply of high collars and tube roses. The festivities were kept up till early in the morning.

The State Dental Association.

This Association continued its session, at Charlotte, on Wesnesday. The following were admitted to membership: Dr W W Noland, of Lincolnton, and Drs J F Griffith and R P Bessent, of Salisbury.

The committee on Dental Education reported through Dr Turner. This gentlemen read a very interesting essay. On motion, the essay was received by the Association and ordered to be filed.

W H Edwards, a student of Dr. V E Turner, of Raleigh, was selected by the Association as a beneficiary, entitling him to a scholarship in the Maryland Dental College.

On motion, the Association went into the election of officers for ensuing year, with the following result:

President —E L Hunter, of Enfield.

1st. Vice President—D E Everitt, of Raleigh.

2d. Vice President—I Simpson, of Winnsboro, S. C.

Secretary—W H Hoffman.

Treasurer—J H Crawford.

On motion, Raleigh was selected as the place of next meeting, and the first Tuesday in July, 1879, was fixed as the time.

The Association met again yesterday. These notes of the meeting are from the Charlotte Observer.

Personal.

Wm. R. Pool, Esq., Chairman of the new Board of County Commissioners, is confined to his house with illness.

Judge E. G. Reade and family are at the Central Hotel, Winston.

Mr Ed Barbee, of the firm of Rand & Barbee Bros., is North on a business trip for the firm. The public may look out for their fall announcements.

Col. J. McL. Turner, keeper of the Capitol, left yesterday on a visit to relations, in Clarksville, Ga., to be absent three weeks.

Dr. A. B. Hawkins, of Tallahassee, Fla., is in the city, visiting relatives.

Dr. H. E. T. Manning, one of the editors of the Maryland Medical Journal, of Baltimore, has kindly tendered his services to the Howard Association, Vicksburg, Miss., for the treatment of the yellow fever sufferers. Dr, Manning is a native of Halifax county, and is well and favorably known in North Carolina. This is truly a noble act, from a kind hearted physician.

Beautiful Lights.

Yesterday some members of the Executive committee of the Ladies Relief society called on Mr. R. H. Bradley to see if some Chinese lanters could be secured for the illumination of the capitol square. Fortunately, Mr. Bradley had in his store over two hundred handsome lanterns. These were the property of the committee which made arrangements for the illumination etc., at the inauguration of Gov. Vance Mr. Bradley telegraphed to the leaders of that movement, and they at once gave the use of the lanterns. He then went to work to lend further aid, and soon secured two hundred and fifteen candles, for use in the lanterns. The scene in the square with these many lights pendant from the trees, will be beautiful in the extreme, and their gift will add much to the occasion.

Contributions for the Yellow Fever Sufferers.

Mr. A. P. C. Bryan, the Express agent, yesterday received fourteen dollars from the Baptist church at Chapel Hill. The amount of five dollars was deposited in his mite chest during the day, and the total sum was sent on.

Mayor Manly received ten dollars from Rev. A. M. Newton. This amount was duly forwarded.

It is suggested that mite boxes be at once put up in the hotels, banks, and principal offices It is a good way to secure contributions. Raleigh is doing well but the good work must not stop. Let no effort be spared to show the sympathy between the people here and the poor suffering ones. The accounts of the plague increase in horror daily.

Abstracts of Taxes.

Rockingham county sends in an abstract of listed taxables to the State Auditor, being the third county to so report. The report is made by R. S. Llewellyn, Esq., Register of Deeds, and gives:

The Fay Templeton Star Alliance.

Play goers will not forget that the excellent Templeton troupe, long known here, appears to-night at Tucker Hall. Little May the Fay, whose juvenile acting was so sparkling, has grown to be a charming little woman. The songs, dances, and acting of this graceful little creature are perfect in their way. The troupe also contains Alice and Isabel Vane, and John Templeton, besides a number of other good performers. The play to be performed is elsewhere stated.

The Citys Colored Schools.

The building at the corner of McDowell and South streets has been long known as the Washington school, and for the past year or so has been used as a graded school. The building is the property of some parties North. These desire hereafter to run the institution as a Normal School. The School Board were therefore compelled to seek other quarters. They have secured the large building of the Second Baptist Church, colored, more generally known as Tupper's. On Monday week this will be opened. The number of pupils enrolled at the Washington school last term was over 300.

The Minstrels.

The Calliopean Minstrels and Raleigh Light Infantry Band are rehearsing for the entertainment next Tuesday night for the benefit of the yellow fever sufferers, and will present an entire new programme. We have never witnessed a finer amateur entertainment, and doubt not but our entire community will lend their presence to their performance and assist the young men in their noble effort to raise funds for those now suffering in the plague-stricken South. Don't forget Tuesday night, September 10th, at Tucker Hall. Tickets will be for sale at the usual places to-morrow.

Dress Parade.

Our gallant boys, the Raleigh Light Infantry will parade this evening and attend the festival at the Capitol in full dress uniform. Their excellent band which has been practising nightly under the instruction of Prof. Baker, have offered their services to the managers of the dime party. They will march with the company to the capitol.

For the Little Ones.

The President of the Ladies Relief Association states that this evening at 4:30 o clock, the doors of the capitol will be opened for the benefit of the little ones who cannot attend the dime party at night.

Messrs. Geo. W. Wynne & Co. have sold their livery stable to Baker & Kelley. The notice of such appears elsewhere.

I now intend to sell triple plated spoons, forks, castors, china glass, and crockery at cost for the next ten days, as I must close out my present stock to make room for new goods. F. G Law, Agent. When we Demoralize the Stomach.

By excesses or imprudence in eating, we cannot hope to escape the consequences for any great length of time. The most robust digestion must succumb to abuses of that important function. But supposing that we have been foolish enough to enfeeble the stomach, is the damage irreparable? By no means. The dyspeptic has only to do two things to insure his ultimate recovery. First, he should adopt an easily digestible diet. Second, he should use with regularity and persistence Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the leading gastric invigorant of the age. The multiform symptoms of dyspepsia, and the a most invariably attendant disorders, biliousness and constipation will assuredly cease to persecute the sufferer if the above advice is attended to. Who that has suffered the torments that chronic indigestion inflicts will neglect to take advantage of a remedy when if the most positive evidence of the medical profession and the public is to be received with due credence, is an absolute specific for the complaint. sept 3 d6tw1t

JONES' BAKING POWDER

FOR SALE BY ALL GROCERS.

We ask all cooks, housewives, and the general public to give our goods an impartial trial. This Powder is carefully prepared upon scientific principles—the result of long and careful experiments and tests in chemistry. In its proportions and compounding, it is the perfection of science, and is recommended by the leading Chemists in the United States, whose certificates we have. It is perfectly pure and wholesome, and saves time, labor and money to every consumer. It stands unrivaled; we challenge the world to produce better, purer or more wholesome goods.

REASONS WHY IT SHOULD BE USED:

A BARREL OF FLOUR MAKES ABOUT 40 POUNDS MORE BREAD
IT NEVER FAILS AND ALWAYS PLEASES THE CONSUMER.
IT IS THE PERFECTION OF SCIENCE IN COOKERY.
IT IS A COMFORT FOR EVERY HOME.
YOUR BREAD WILL NEVER BE SOUR.
YOUR FOOD WILL BE THE BEST.
YOUR BREAD WILL BE WHITER AND RICHER.
YOUR HEALTH WILL BE PRESERVED BY ITS PURITY.

WARRANTED TO KEEP IN ANY CLIMATE

We do most earnestly caution consumsrs of Baking Powder against using adulterated and cheap goods, as no good and pure Baking Powder can be sold for less than ours.

An analysis of the cheap clap-trap spurious adulterated goods called Baking Powder would startle the community of consumers beyoud precedence, as most of it is not fit for use, and would not be allowed to be sold were the laws enforced; yet goods of this kind are manufactured and sold by dealers because offered cheap by unscrupulous manufacturers. We caution those who value health, and appreciate good, wholesome living to buy only Pure Baking Powder. Jones' Unrivaled is such. It is an established article through out the West and South, and is recommended by the highest authority for Purity and Strength.

All first-class storekeepers have it because it is pure and can be relied upon, and is a credit to their stock.

Merchants are authorized to warrant our goods where directions are followed.

Our statements are correct and are backed by chemists of note and experience, and we hold ourselves ready to prove our assertions.

We are offering goods of undoubted purity, which are in their compounding, as we claim "UNRIVALED."

Colden's Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef is a most excellent preparation. It is par excellence. Superior to cod liver oil or anything I have ever used in wasted or impaired constitutions.

A recent letter from New Orleans states that Colden's Liebig's Liquid Extract of Beef has been extremely beneficial as a preventive to those exposed to yellow fever malaria. Williams & Haywood, Agents. sept 3-2w
